TRIAL LAWYERS

Rooted in Our Community: Goldstein Hayes Gives More Than 1 Million Dollars to Hospitals Across Georgia

At Goldstein Hayes, our commitment to justice extends far beyond the courtroom. We believe a law firm should be an active force for good in the communities it serves—and that belief is at the heart of everything we do.

Our team has had the privilege of representing individuals and families across Georgia during some of the most challenging moments of their lives. That connection to our clients and neighbors is what drives our passion for community involvement. We don't just work here—we live here, raise our families here, and care deeply about the health and well-being of our communities.

One of the causes we are most proud to support is the Georgia's Heart Hospital Program through the Georgia HEART initiative. This statewide program helps rural hospitals expand access to advanced cardiac care—care that can mean the difference between life and death for patients who might otherwise have to travel hours for treatment.

To date, Goldstein Hayes has contributed more than $1 million to hospitals across Georgia through this program, placing our firm among the top contributing law firms in the state. In 2025 alone, we were honored to donate $400,000 to St. Mary's Sacred Heart Hospital in Lavonia, helping strengthen cardiovascular services for patients throughout Northeast Georgia.

These contributions directly support rural hospitals, ensuring they have the equipment, technology, and resources needed to deliver high-quality heart care close to home. For families in smaller communities, that access can save precious time—and lives.

Supporting Mothers Against Drunk Driving

In addition to healthcare initiatives, Goldstein Hayes is proud to support Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD), an organization dedicated to preventing impaired driving, supporting victims, and advocating for stronger safety laws. MADD's mission aligns closely with our own: protecting families, holding wrongdoers accountable, and working toward safer communities for everyone.

Through our support of MADD, we stand with those who have been affected by preventable tragedies and help promote education and awareness that can stop these tragedies before they happen.

Community involvement isn't something we see as optional—it's part of who we are. Whether it's investing in rural healthcare, supporting victims' advocacy organizations, or giving back in other meaningful ways, we are dedicated to making a lasting, positive impact throughout Georgia.

At Goldstein Hayes, we are proud to be known not only for our legal results, but for our heart. We will continue to stand up for our clients, support our neighbors, and strengthen the communities that have placed their trust in us.

March 14: Atlanta's St. Patrick's Parade

Spring is beginning to show up across Atlanta, bringing longer days, warmer afternoons, and a full calendar of local events. March is a great time to get outside and enjoy the city, whether you're looking for family-friendly activities or a relaxing weekend outing.

One of the month's most anticipated traditions is the Atlanta St. Patrick's Parade, returning to Midtown. As one of the longest-running St. Patrick's parades in the country, it fills Peachtree Street with marching bands, colorful floats, and plenty of green. It's a lively, family-friendly way to kick off the spring season in the heart of the city.

Starting March 1: Atlanta Botanical Garden Bloom Display

Spring also officially arrives at the Atlanta Botanical Garden during its annual bloom display. Thousands of tulips, daffodils, and flowering trees transform the gardens into one of Atlanta's most beautiful destinations this time of year. Whether you're planning a weekend stroll or a quiet afternoon outdoors, it's a favorite seasonal tradition.

Local Farmers Markets Reopen

As neighborhoods come back to life, several local farmers markets — including the Peachtree Road Farmers Market and the Grant Park Farmers Market — begin reopening for the season. With fresh produce, baked goods, and small business vendors, they offer an awesome way to support the community and spend a Saturday morning outdoors.

However you choose to enjoy March in Atlanta, we hope it's a season filled with fresh air, community, and time well spent with family and friends. And as always, if you ever need us, our team is here to help.

April 9-12: The Masters Tournament

Each April, Georgia takes center stage as Augusta hosts one of the most prestigious tournaments in sports. The Masters is known for its immaculate fairways, blooming azaleas, and the tradition of the green jacket — but it's also a point of pride for our state. Whether you're attending in person or following along from home, Masters week brings a polished energy and unmistakable Southern charm that signals spring has officially arrived in Georgia.

If you're looking for a reason to gather with friends, support local businesses, or simply enjoy a spring weekend outdoors, let Masters week be your excuse to soak in one of Georgia's most iconic traditions.

Legal Insight

Think a Concussion Is "No Big Deal"? Think Again.

A concussion can happen in seconds—but the effects can last for weeks or even months if not handled properly. Many people unknowingly make mistakes during recovery, like returning to work too soon, ignoring subtle warning signs, or pushing through symptoms that their brain is using to signal it needs rest. These missteps can delay healing and lead to prolonged headaches, brain fog, and other complications.

In this important guide we outlines 6 critical dos and don’ts after a concussion, including the common recovery mistakes people make and the simple steps that can help protect your long-term health. If your injury was caused by an accident in Atlanta, the article also explains what you should know about your legal rights.
